

Greetings to Hope's Guests
and a Rap at Reds

Hope looks for a record turnout at tonight's farm banquet, in Fair park at 8 o'clock.

It will mark the conclusion of (1) the Hope Chamber of Commerce Pasture Improvement Campaign and (2) the Arkansas Improved Farming Competition—with the county winners to be announced in both contests.

Beyond the beneficial effect such campaigns have for our section in general, tonight's meeting holds specific interest because C. Hamilton Moses, president of the State Chamber of Commerce, is bringing to the banquet a delegation of eastern correspondents and photographers who have been making a tour of Arkansas.

Greetings from Hope to Mr. Moses and the visiting friends.

If Hope business people seem to be building a fire under this meeting tonight the least you can say about 'em is that they are in the same place this winter finds himself last Spring we promised $100 in prizes from the newspaper for the C. of C. Pasture Improvement Campaign; and anything you have a financial stake in suddenly becomes important.

That's the unexpected angle of prize you have the entrants coming and the donors going . . . .

Before the war I used to get some literature from an outfit called Consumers Union, address 17 Union Square, New York 3, N. Y.—and I thought it had died. But it hasn't. Another prospectus turned up in this morning's mail.

Consumers Union, claiming a membership of 150,000 families, undertakes to test and judge the branded and advertised goods of American factories, reporting its findings to the membership with a recommendation "to buy" or "not to buy." "Eleven years of such tests," the prospectus tells me, "have shown that the most expensive products are often not the best; and that brand names and claims are equally unreliable guides to quality."

That Consumers Union is poison to a newspaper, and to a merchant, who sells branded goods, is obvious. But it is poison to professional men also, for it offers advice on health and medicine, and other matters.

You get this universal advisory service for the insignificant fee of $5 per year.

But Consumers Union is a liar at the top level. How for $5 a year can you buy anything like the guarantee given by national brands?

And when is the American public going to give up the right to be its own judge and jury in the market place? Not now anyway—for Consumers Union's admission that it has only 150,000 family members in America is clear evidence that the public trusts its own judgment ahead of any committee hailing from Union Square, New York.

Only routine business was discussed at last night's regular council session and the group passed an ordinance requiring all trucks over a half-ton to park parallel with the curbs in downtown Hope.

The group took under consideration an application from Charles Reed to rent building 205 at Municipal airport for $10 per month for the next 3 years. Byron Helmer is also seeking to rent the building and would pay $30 per month.

C. O. Thomas reported on Hope-Bodeaw electrical line, 1 and a half miles, serving six customers. Cost of the line would be $700 and income would be $24 monthly average. Construction was approved.

E. D. Douglas gave a detailed financial report on expenditures at the Hope-Bodeaw line, and continued aid. No action was taken.

Kenneth Hamilton, representing the Livestock Association, asked refund of $100 paid by Snap Shows and payment of two bills by the city amounting to $214.20. The council remitted the $100 license fee but refused to pay the two bills.

A contract was awarded to M. S. Bates for leasing of 750 acres of city-owned land in SFC for period of five years for a sum of $3,500 with payments made yearly.

A motion was passed to lay a 6" water line a distance of 1050 feet, to Hope-Basket, to plant to increase water pressure in that area of fire. The motion was passed with a condition that the Basket plant furnish caulking lead. C. O. Thomas was authorized to lower the water line on East 15th St.

The group voted to allow the Fire Department to purchase a new motor for a tank truck.

Wife of Nazi 'Hangman' to Serve Life

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 20 —(AP)—Margareta Heydrich, 37, widow of "hangman" Reinhard Heydrich, was sentenced in Absentia yesterday to life imprisonment.

50TH YEAR: VOL. 50 — NO. 6

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

Battle Looms Between Korea Factions

By WILLIAM MOORE

Seoul Oct. 20 —(AP)—A pitched battle between loyal and insurgent Korean soldiers was expected in the extreme southern part of Korea tonight after a rebel band of soldiers killed or captured 100 policemen at two towns.

Martial law was declared in south Korea—the American zone—by Home Minister T. Y. Yoon shortly after President Rhee returned here from Japan.

The uprising began at Yosu on the South Coast and spread quickly to Suwon, 120 miles away. Yoon said the rebels were led by Communist soldiers.

Police stations of both towns were burned. Loyal soldiers at Yosu were evacuated by the Korean coast guard after the uprising.

The growing insurgent force was reported marching on Kwangju capital of south Cholla Province.

Troops and Korean police were sent to meet them. Government authorities expected a battle during the night but because of the remoteness of the area reports from there were not expected until later.

Thurmond to Speak Here October 26

Little Rock, Oct. 20 —(AP)—Eight speeches here planned by Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, States Rights Democrat presidential nominee, during his two-day tour through Arkansas next week.

The South Carolina governor will make his first stop at 8:30 a. m. Monday in Magnolia. Other appearances on his first day's itinerary include: Camden at noon, Jonesboro at 2:30 p. m., and a Little Rock radio interview at 6:30 p. m.

Thurmond will speak at Robinson Auditorium here Monday at 8 p. m.

His second day's tour will include two addresses at Hope on Tuesday and a speech at an Arkansas State Political League rally in Fayetteville at 8 p. m.

He will leave Wednesday for Shreveport, La., but will return for a final address in Arkansas at Texarkana that night.

This wife will accompany him on the campaign tour. They will travel by airplane.

New Store Is Opened in Hope

Hope Salvage Co., 115 East Third Street, will formally open on Thursday, October 21. The new firm is being opened by Dorsey Fuller and his father, Homer Fuller, both well-known Hope men.

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

By the school teacher who risked death rather than return to Russia. (Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

In today's article, Mrs. Kasenkina explains the events leading up to her writing the impulsive and faithful letter which was to bring about the raid on Reed farm under the leadership of the Russian Consul General Lomakin.

INSTALLMENT 23
By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
Edited by Isaac Don Levine

I have longed for an American atmosphere when I broke away from my Soviet guardians, but I was plunged into a stilling Russian atmosphere when I settled down at the Reed Farm of the Tolstoy Foundation.

Despite the angelic character of Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, who unfortunately was away most of the time at her New York offices, I found myself under suspicion and surveillance at the institution this time as a Soviet spy!

It is with deep pain that I am describing this intrusion of my critical days from Saturday July 31, to Saturday August 7. I value highly the great humanitarian work being carried on by the Tolstoy Foundation for the relief of the help less Russian DPs in Europe and America and hope to be of help in this sacred cause when I recover.

Yet I cannot hold back the truth about the conditions that drove me to write my impulsive letter to the Soviet consul general, which eventually led to my seizure by him and his aides and to my imprisonment in the consulate.

Upon my arrival at the farm, Countess Tolstoy and Vladimir Zeldinov, who had brought me there, examined my pass port and found that my visa to remain in the United States was valid for some time.

Miss Tolstoy then told me she would get in touch with the proper authorities to insure my continued legal residence in this country. We had heart-to-heart talk and I was installed in a comfortable room for the night.

I was given an assumed name under which I was to live at the farm. Miss Tolstoy also cautioned me not to discuss my affairs and to do my best to keep my mouth shut. There were close to a hundred inmates in the place, of both sexes and of all ages and stations of life. Most of them had left Russia in the First World War, some thirty years ago, and included members of the nobility and the old military class.

I became an object of instant curiosity, especially when I was transferred the following day to the screened porch which I shared with the supervisor of the establishment, Martha Andreyevna Knutson, an experienced and admirable social worker. I was assigned to work in the kitchen.

Looking back upon the events of those days, I now realize that I had arrived at the farm in a highly nervous state, and was being begged off from unaccustomed toil until I had had a rest. I know that any not showing up at the sailing of the Soviet ship would lead to a widespread hunt for me. The duty in the mass production kitchen, with its endless peeling of potatoes or shelling eggs was irritating. I would have preferred a factory job.

One day Mrs. Knutson even remarked to me: "I can see you're not used to kitchen chores. Who took care of you all your life?" "I've been a teacher all my life," I replied, "and the kitchen was not one of my specialties." To myself I kept saying, "this is hard work but at least you're out of Soviet hands."

These visits began to eye me suspiciously. Every evening they would gather on the veranda and engage in political discussions. I did not participate in them, true to Miss Tolstoy's instructions. My silence gave rise to significant glances.

There were many in the assembly who did not speak the democratic language of Mark Weinbaum, of the Novoye Russkoye Slovo, the Russian newspaper, or of Zeldinov, or of Miss Tolstoy herself. These people had inspired me with confidence because of their liberalism. My dream, has always been a democratic Russia. I was now forced to listen mostly to talk of a restoration of the monarchy after the collapse of the Soviet regime. This anti-social palaver started when one, but I could not answer it.

Then there was constant bickering and wrangling among the habits of the institution. Everybody watched everybody else. Gossips and petty malice were common. There was no talk of rank in the long ago dreamed that they be accorded privileged treatment.

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

By the school teacher who risked death rather than return to Russia. (Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

In today's article, Mrs. Kasenkina explains the events leading up to her writing the impulsive and faithful letter which was to bring about the raid on Reed farm under the leadership of the Russian Consul General Lomakin.

INSTALLMENT 23
By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
Edited by Isaac Don Levine

I have longed for an American atmosphere when I broke away from my Soviet guardians, but I was plunged into a stilling Russian atmosphere when I settled down at the Reed Farm of the Tolstoy Foundation.

Despite the angelic character of Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, who unfortunately was away most of the time at her New York offices, I found myself under suspicion and surveillance at the institution this time as a Soviet spy!

It is with deep pain that I am describing this intrusion of my critical days from Saturday July 31, to Saturday August 7. I value highly the great humanitarian work being carried on by the Tolstoy Foundation for the relief of the help less Russian DPs in Europe and America and hope to be of help in this sacred cause when I recover.

Yet I cannot hold back the truth about the conditions that drove me to write my impulsive letter to the Soviet consul general, which eventually led to my seizure by him and his aides and to my imprisonment in the consulate.

Upon my arrival at the farm, Countess Tolstoy and Vladimir Zeldinov, who had brought me there, examined my pass port and found that my visa to remain in the United States was valid for some time.

Miss Tolstoy then told me she would get in touch with the proper authorities to insure my continued legal residence in this country. We had heart-to-heart talk and I was installed in a comfortable room for the night.

I was given an assumed name under which I was to live at the farm. Miss Tolstoy also cautioned me not to discuss my affairs and to do my best to keep my mouth shut. There were close to a hundred inmates in the place, of both sexes and of all ages and stations of life. Most of them had left Russia in the First World War, some thirty years ago, and included members of the nobility and the old military class.

I became an object of instant curiosity, especially when I was transferred the following day to the screened porch which I shared with the supervisor of the establishment, Martha Andreyevna Knutson, an experienced and admirable social worker. I was assigned to work in the kitchen.

Looking back upon the events of those days, I now realize that I had arrived at the farm in a highly nervous state, and was being begged off from unaccustomed toil until I had had a rest. I know that any not showing up at the sailing of the Soviet ship would lead to a widespread hunt for me. The duty in the mass production kitchen, with its endless peeling of potatoes or shelling eggs was irritating. I would have preferred a factory job.

One day Mrs. Knutson even remarked to me: "I can see you're not used to kitchen chores. Who took care of you all your life?" "I've been a teacher all my life," I replied, "and the kitchen was not one of my specialties." To myself I kept saying, "this is hard work but at least you're out of Soviet hands."

These visits began to eye me suspiciously. Every evening they would gather on the veranda and engage in political discussions. I did not participate in them, true to Miss Tolstoy's instructions. My silence gave rise to significant glances.

There were many in the assembly who did not speak the democratic language of Mark Weinbaum, of the Novoye Russkoye Slovo, the Russian newspaper, or of Zeldinov, or of Miss Tolstoy herself. These people had inspired me with confidence because of their liberalism. My dream, has always been a democratic Russia. I was now forced to listen mostly to talk of a restoration of the monarchy after the collapse of the Soviet regime. This anti-social palaver started when one, but I could not answer it.

Then there was constant bickering and wrangling among the habits of the institution. Everybody watched everybody else. Gossips and petty malice were common. There was no talk of rank in the long ago dreamed that they be accorded privileged treatment.

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

By the school teacher who risked death rather than return to Russia. (Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

In today's article, Mrs. Kasenkina explains the events leading up to her writing the impulsive and faithful letter which was to bring about the raid on Reed farm under the leadership of the Russian Consul General Lomakin.

INSTALLMENT 23
By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
Edited by Isaac Don Levine

I have longed for an American atmosphere when I broke away from my Soviet guardians, but I was plunged into a stilling Russian atmosphere when I settled down at the Reed Farm of the Tolstoy Foundation.

Despite the angelic character of Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, who unfortunately was away most of the time at her New York offices, I found myself under suspicion and surveillance at the institution this time as a Soviet spy!

It is with deep pain that I am describing this intrusion of my critical days from Saturday July 31, to Saturday August 7. I value highly the great humanitarian work being carried on by the Tolstoy Foundation for the relief of the help less Russian DPs in Europe and America and hope to be of help in this sacred cause when I recover.

Yet I cannot hold back the truth about the conditions that drove me to write my impulsive letter to the Soviet consul general, which eventually led to my seizure by him and his aides and to my imprisonment in the consulate.

Upon my arrival at the farm, Countess Tolstoy and Vladimir Zeldinov, who had brought me there, examined my pass port and found that my visa to remain in the United States was valid for some time.

Miss Tolstoy then told me she would get in touch with the proper authorities to insure my continued legal residence in this country. We had heart-to-heart talk and I was installed in a comfortable room for the night.

I was given an assumed name under which I was to live at the farm. Miss Tolstoy also cautioned me not to discuss my affairs and to do my best to keep my mouth shut. There were close to a hundred inmates in the place, of both sexes and of all ages and stations of life. Most of them had left Russia in the First World War, some thirty years ago, and included members of the nobility and the old military class.

I became an object of instant curiosity, especially when I was transferred the following day to the screened porch which I shared with the supervisor of the establishment, Martha Andreyevna Knutson, an experienced and admirable social worker. I was assigned to work in the kitchen.

Looking back upon the events of those days, I now realize that I had arrived at the farm in a highly nervous state, and was being begged off from unaccustomed toil until I had had a rest. I know that any not showing up at the sailing of the Soviet ship would lead to a widespread hunt for me. The duty in the mass production kitchen, with its endless peeling of potatoes or shelling eggs was irritating. I would have preferred a factory job.

One day Mrs. Knutson even remarked to me: "I can see you're not used to kitchen chores. Who took care of you all your life?" "I've been a teacher all my life," I replied, "and the kitchen was not one of my specialties." To myself I kept saying, "this is hard work but at least you're out of Soviet hands."

These visits began to eye me suspiciously. Every evening they would gather on the veranda and engage in political discussions. I did not participate in them, true to Miss Tolstoy's instructions. My silence gave rise to significant glances.

There were many in the assembly who did not speak the democratic language of Mark Weinbaum, of the Novoye Russkoye Slovo, the Russian newspaper, or of Zeldinov, or of Miss Tolstoy herself. These people had inspired me with confidence because of their liberalism. My dream, has always been a democratic Russia. I was now forced to listen mostly to talk of a restoration of the monarchy after the collapse of the Soviet regime. This anti-social palaver started when one, but I could not answer it.

Then there was constant bickering and wrangling among the habits of the institution. Everybody watched everybody else. Gossips and petty malice were common. There was no talk of rank in the long ago dreamed that they be accorded privileged treatment.

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

By the school teacher who risked death rather than return to Russia. (Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

In today's article, Mrs. Kasenkina explains the events leading up to her writing the impulsive and faithful letter which was to bring about the raid on Reed farm under the leadership of the Russian Consul General Lomakin.

INSTALLMENT 23
By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
Edited by Isaac Don Levine

I have longed for an American atmosphere when I broke away from my Soviet guardians, but I was plunged into a stilling Russian atmosphere when I settled down at the Reed Farm of the Tolstoy Foundation.

Despite the angelic character of Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, who unfortunately was away most of the time at her New York offices, I found myself under suspicion and surveillance at the institution this time as a Soviet spy!

It is with deep pain that I am describing this intrusion of my critical days from Saturday July 31, to Saturday August 7. I value highly the great humanitarian work being carried on by the Tolstoy Foundation for the relief of the help less Russian DPs in Europe and America and hope to be of help in this sacred cause when I recover.

Yet I cannot hold back the truth about the conditions that drove me to write my impulsive letter to the Soviet consul general, which eventually led to my seizure by him and his aides and to my imprisonment in the consulate.

Upon my arrival at the farm, Countess Tolstoy and Vladimir Zeldinov, who had brought me there, examined my pass port and found that my visa to remain in the United States was valid for some time.

Miss Tolstoy then told me she would get in touch with the proper authorities to insure my continued legal residence in this country. We had heart-to-heart talk and I was installed in a comfortable room for the night.

I was given an assumed name under which I was to live at the farm. Miss Tolstoy also cautioned me not to discuss my affairs and to do my best to keep my mouth shut. There were close to a hundred inmates in the place, of both sexes and of all ages and stations of life. Most of them had left Russia in the First World War, some thirty years ago, and included members of the nobility and the old military class.

I became an object of instant curiosity, especially when I was transferred the following day to the screened porch which I shared with the supervisor of the establishment, Martha Andreyevna Knutson, an experienced and admirable social worker. I was assigned to work in the kitchen.

Looking back upon the events of those days, I now realize that I had arrived at the farm in a highly nervous state, and was being begged off from unaccustomed toil until I had had a rest. I know that any not showing up at the sailing of the Soviet ship would lead to a widespread hunt for me. The duty in the mass production kitchen, with its endless peeling of potatoes or shelling eggs was irritating. I would have preferred a factory job.

One day Mrs. Knutson even remarked to me: "I can see you're not used to kitchen chores. Who took care of you all your life?" "I've been a teacher all my life," I replied, "and the kitchen was not one of my specialties." To myself I kept saying, "this is hard work but at least you're out of Soviet hands."

These visits began to eye me suspiciously. Every evening they would gather on the veranda and engage in political discussions. I did not participate in them, true to Miss Tolstoy's instructions. My silence gave rise to significant glances.

There were many in the assembly who did not speak the democratic language of Mark Weinbaum, of the Novoye Russkoye Slovo, the Russian newspaper, or of Zeldinov, or of Miss Tolstoy herself. These people had inspired me with confidence because of their liberalism. My dream, has always been a democratic Russia. I was now forced to listen mostly to talk of a restoration of the monarchy after the collapse of the Soviet regime. This anti-social palaver started when one, but I could not answer it.

Then there was constant bickering and wrangling among the habits of the institution. Everybody watched everybody else. Gossips and petty malice were common. There was no talk of rank in the long ago dreamed that they be accorded privileged treatment.

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

By the school teacher who risked death rather than return to Russia. (Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

In today's article, Mrs. Kasenkina explains the events leading up to her writing the impulsive and faithful letter which was to bring about the raid on Reed farm under the leadership of the Russian Consul General Lomakin.

INSTALLMENT 23
By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
Edited by Isaac Don Levine

I have longed for an American atmosphere when I broke away from my Soviet guardians, but I was plunged into a stilling Russian atmosphere when I settled down at the Reed Farm of the Tolstoy Foundation.

Despite the angelic character of Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, who unfortunately was away most of the time at her New York offices, I found myself under suspicion and surveillance at the institution this time as a Soviet spy!

It is with deep pain that I am describing this intrusion of my critical days from Saturday July 31, to Saturday August 7. I value highly the great humanitarian work being carried on by the Tolstoy Foundation for the relief of the help less Russian DPs in Europe and America and hope to be of help in this sacred cause when I recover.

Yet I cannot hold back the truth about the conditions that drove me to write my impulsive letter to the Soviet consul general, which eventually led to my seizure by him and his aides and to my imprisonment in the consulate.

Upon my arrival at the farm, Countess Tolstoy and Vladimir Zeldinov, who had brought me there, examined my pass port and found that my visa to remain in the United States was valid for some time.

Miss Tolstoy then told me she would get in touch with the proper authorities to insure my continued legal residence in this country. We had heart-to-heart talk and I was installed in a comfortable room for the night.

I was given an assumed name under which I was to live at the farm. Miss Tolstoy also cautioned me not to discuss my affairs and to do my best to keep my mouth shut. There were close to a hundred inmates in the place, of both sexes and of all ages and stations of life. Most of them had left Russia in the First World War, some thirty years ago, and included members of the nobility and the old military class.

I became an object of instant curiosity, especially when I was transferred the following day to the screened porch which I shared with the supervisor of the establishment, Martha Andreyevna Knutson, an experienced and admirable social worker. I was assigned to work in the kitchen.

Looking back upon the events of those days, I now realize that I had arrived at the farm in a highly nervous state, and was being begged off from unaccustomed toil until I had had a rest. I know that any not showing up at the sailing of the Soviet ship would lead to a widespread hunt for me. The duty in the mass production kitchen, with its endless peeling of potatoes or shelling eggs was irritating. I would have preferred a factory job.

One day Mrs. Knutson even remarked to me: "I can see you're not used to kitchen chores. Who took care of you all your life?" "I've been a teacher all my life," I replied, "and the kitchen was not one of my specialties." To myself I kept saying, "this is hard work but at least you're out of Soviet hands."

These visits began to eye me suspiciously. Every evening they would gather on the veranda and engage in political discussions. I did not participate in them, true to Miss Tolstoy's instructions. My silence gave rise to significant glances.

There were many in the assembly who did not speak the democratic language of Mark Weinbaum, of the Novoye Russkoye Slovo, the Russian newspaper, or of Zeldinov, or of Miss Tolstoy herself. These people had inspired me with confidence because of their liberalism. My dream, has always been a democratic Russia. I was now forced to listen mostly to talk of a restoration of the monarchy after the collapse of the Soviet regime. This anti-social palaver started when one, but I could not answer it.

Then there was constant bickering and wrangling among the habits of the institution. Everybody watched everybody else. Gossips and petty malice were common. There was no talk of rank in the long ago dreamed that they be accorded privileged treatment.

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

Tel Aviv Israel Oct. 20 —(AP)—The Israel government received today the United Nations order to cease firing in the Negev desert battle.

(Egypt also received official notification as the cease fire order Premier Mahmuud Nokrashi Pasha told newsmen in Cairo "Jewish aggression" continued this morning. He said the U. N. order did not fix any deadline and he understood this would be set by the acting mediator Dr. Ralph Bunche.)

Fighting dwindled but it appeared the Jewish army already had accomplished its major objectives.

The Israeli air force last night again bombed Gaza in an attack described as a "punitive" mission. Jewish planes also struck Beerseba, El Arish Majdal and Be'er Jibrin.

An informant said Jewish infantry is "consolidating its positions" atop captured heights controlling key roads of southern Palestine.

One road leads to the Negev and its 25 Jewish settlements. The clearing of this road was a declared objective of the Jewish attack which began last Friday. The second road was the Egyptians' main supply route to their front. South of Jerusalem the Beerseba road which the Jews appeared to have breached widely.

An Israeli military spokesman said the flight of civilian Arabs from the port city of Gaza a major Egyptian base and seat of the Arab Palestine government apparently is continuing.

Unofficial observers here believe the Jews have obtained positions military and bargaining positions they had wanted on the Negev issue.

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

Fire Damages Russell Store and Home

Fire of undetermined origin gutted living quarters of the C. B. Russell Grocery on West Third early last night and first estimates placed the loss at several thousand dollars.

The blaze apparently originated in the living quarters and completely gutted that part of the building, in which the Russell family lived. The grocery store in front was damaged mostly by water and smoke.

The fire was confined to the rear of the building but extended in the attic in the front part.

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

Cotton Ginned in Hempstead Totals 6171 Bales

A census report shows that 6,171 bales of cotton were ginned in Hempstead county from the crop of 1948 prior to October 1 as compared with 1,680 bales for the crop of 1947.

Things Change in Few Years—Former German Prisoner Now Back in U. S. as a Guest

By HAL BOYLE
Washington — (AP)—Five years ago next month Hans-Norbert Finkel came to the United States as a German war prisoner.

Finkel, now 28, is back in America again. This time he is a guest under different circumstances. He is one of 13 German editors and publishers attending a seminar of the American Press Institute at Columbia University.

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

M. L. Nelson, Blevins School Director 41 Years, Honored by Educators of Arkansas

Progress Made in Arkansas Harvesting

Little Rock, Oct. 20 —(UP)—Progress was made in the harvest of rice and cotton in Arkansas last week because of the "almost ideal" weather, the Federal-State Weather and Crop bulletin reported today.

It was the fifth consecutive week, the report said, that the elements abetted Arkansas planters in the gathering of their bumper crops.

The heavy labor demands for rice and cotton, however, delayed the harvest of corn and sorghums.

"Seeding of small grains and winter cover crops was light because of dry weather," the report said, "but good rains over the weekend should put many fields in condition for seeding."

Freezing temperatures in northern counties and light to heavy frost throughout the state early this week did little damage because most crops are mature.

The picking is making rapid strides, although more pickers are needed in some areas. Gins are operating fulltime and in a few areas ginnings so far already have exceeded total ginnings for the previous year. The state as a whole, almost three-fifths of the crop has been harvested.

The rice harvest continues at a fairly rapid rate, but is slowed somewhat by a shortage of drying and storage facilities. Harvest is about three-fourths complete, and yields are reported good.

Tells of Soviet Refugee Raid on U.S. Farm

Social and Personal

Phone 1268 or 1269 Between 9 A. M. and 4 P. M.

Odd Fellows and Rebekah
The Odd Fellows and Rebekah chapters will have a fish fry in the hall Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. All members and friends are invited.

Wednesday, October 20
There will be a meeting of the choir of the Garrett Memorial Baptist church Wednesday at 7 p.m. Teachers are asked to be present.

Garrett Memorial Baptist church
The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the church for the choir. This includes a lesson in music.

Thursday, October 21
The choir of the First Pentecostal church will meet Thursday, 7:30 p.m. at the church for the choir. This includes a lesson in music.

Friday, October 21
The regular meeting of the Hope Lodge will be held Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the lodge. Members are urged to attend this meeting.

Azalea Garden Club
The Azalea Garden Club will meet Thursday at 2 o'clock with the regular meeting.

MILLIONS PREFER
It's for dependability. It's as pure as money. It's the world's best seller at 10c.
Joseph Aspirin
FOR CHILDREN
Easy to give. Orange flavor. 50 tablets, 25c.

PIALLO
TODAY - THURSDAY
2 - 3:50 - 5:43 - 7:36 - 9:21
Fontaine Jordan
"ALL MY LIFE I'VE WAITED FOR YOU"
Letter from an Unknown Woman

SAENGER
TODAY - THURSDAY
2 - 3:54 - 5:35 - 7:32 - 9:21
HERE COMES THE LAUGH
IN THE FUNNIEST SALESMAN STORY EVER TOLD!
BRIGADE...
Donald O'Connor
MARION MAR
PERCY KILBIDE
PENNY EDWARDS
WED. THURS.

OR THAT NEW LOOK TWICE!
SHORT MEDIUM LONG
PERSONALIZED PROPORTIONS
Claussner
"KLEER-SHEER"
Exclusive Hosiery
WEAR-SEALED
For Those Who Like the Finest
A full range of sizes 1.50 and 1.95
Herbert Burns
STORE FOR MEN AND BOYS

Clubs

Sweet Home
The Sweet Home Club met at home of Mrs. W. T. Yarbrough on October 15 at 2 p.m. with 12 members present. Meeting called to order by President, Hazel Cummings. Song "Faith of our Fathers" was sung by group. Devotional Acts 12:1-10 read by Mrs. Ed Lee, all repeating Lord's prayer. Roll call was answered with "What I did to increase club enrollment." Discussion by Mrs. C. A. Phillips on Demonstration the club would like for next year, and what we could do to make club work more interesting. Phas were made for all to attend the cooking school at Glevins on October 26. Mrs. J. B. Wainking discussed how to care for shrubs doing nicely.

Friends of Mr. C. F. Baker will be happy to know that he has been removed to his home here after undergoing an operation in St. Vincent's Infirmary in Little Rock.

Hospital Notes

Josephine
Admitted:
J. L. Beckham, Hope.
Discharged:
Mrs. J. C. Atchley and little son, Donald Wayne, Hope.
Master Lacy Roland Hill, Elmop.
Mrs. Harlan Honca, Blevins.
Mrs. Edwin Stewart Hope.

Coming and Going

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Barr left Wednesday for Helena for a week's visit with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Barr Jr. and family.

Victor Craibe, who is a student at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville was the week-end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Craibe.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clayton have returned to their home in Conway after a visit with Mrs. Clayton's sister, Mrs. Jess Davis and Mr. Davis.

Mrs. Wash Hutson returned last night from Greenville, South Carolina after a two months visit with Major and Mrs. Frank Malone. She was accompanied home by Major and Mrs. Malone. After a several hours they will visit relatives in Waco and Houston for several weeks.

Personal Mention

Friends of Mrs. C. C. Kimberley will regret to learn that she is still a patient at the Wade Clinic in Hot Springs, but is reported as being better.

The Loves of Carmen

By SOPHIE KERR
Copyright, 1948, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Don Jose, young officer in a fashionable Spanish regiment, falls victim to the charms of the bewitching gypsy, Carmen. He kills his commanding officer in a sword-fight over her and is forced to flee to a mountain hide-out, where he joins the band of gypsy rogues who are Carmen's associates. His last illusion is shattered when he learns that Garcia, the leader, is Carmen's husband. Jose remains in the camp while the others go off on an expedition. Carmen is to pick up a victim in town and lure him to a deserted house, where the men will beat and rob him. The men arrive at the spot first, play cards while they wait for Carmen.

XXI
At the Corral de la Plaza in Cordova, the matadors, picadors, and hangers-on practiced in sort of an exercise pen off the main arena. They rehearsed the horses. Some jumped back and forth over low barriers, concentrating on their foot work; others practiced with the cape. Enthusiastic fans lounged around. A slim-bodied young Spaniard worked alone with the cape, twisted and turning with brilliantly executed steps, furling and unfurling his billowing cape. He was elaborately and expensively dressed. He worked near the foot of a flight of steps leading down from the arena grandstand to the corral, and he was watched by an admiring group of hangers-on. Executing one final, intricate pattern, he whirled and stopped, throwing the cape to his helper, and resting for a moment, smiled his acceptance of the admiring shouts of the others.

"Your are in good form today, Lucas!"

The matador nodded. "I am in good form every day, Carlosito."

"No ordinary bull will be able to withstand you today, Lucas," another man said.

"Nor any ordinary woman!" Carmen intervened clearly, her voice coming from the steps above them. Lucas turned to look up. The sly, smiling down the steps toward him, smiling in scornful challenge. "But then, I am not an ordinary woman."

Lucas moved closer, as bold, as careless as Carmen herself. Carmen sat down, her movements deliberately slow and provocative. She was just above the matador's head. As she looked down at him it was exactly as she had looked down on Don Jose, the young, clear-eyed soldier newly come to the great city from Navarre.

But Lucas was no boy. The matador was not a shy young corporal.

Carmen leaped over, smiling down at him with an intimate little smile. "You seem to me like a man who would enjoy having his fortune told."

His eyes appraised her insolently. "And you seem to me like a girl who would be very shalfid at it."

"I have a little place on the edge of town. It is a very nice place for fortune telling."

"And I have a little place in the middle of town that is a better place for fortune telling."

Carmen nodded and held out her arms to be helped down.

Night had fallen on the card game at the ruined house. Garcia was growing more and more angry. "She should have been here a long time ago."

Pablo said, "Maybe she never went into town at all. Maybe that is why the Navarro died and she was sick."

Garcia considered that and Pablo continued with, "Maybe they had it planned that way all the time."

Garcia rose frowning.

Dancabe said, "That isn't true, Garcia."

But Garcia started off and as the others rose to follow him, he said, "You two remain here for another hour. If she comes, we will have lost nothing. If she is playing games with me, it only takes one of us to handle her." He snatched his horse, mounted and galloped off.

Barbarie looked at Pablo with almost clinical curiosity. "Why do you hate the Navarro so, Pablo? Could it be because Carmen?"

"Shut up."

Dancabe chuckled softly. "Well, now you know, eh, Pablo?"

Pablo turned away.

At the mountain camp, Don Jose sat alone by the fire. A foxglove of the soft and he turned away, "I have a little place in the middle of town that is a better place for fortune telling."

He looked up at the sound of a horse's feet, and rose slowly as Carmen came into the light of the fire and announced,

"Carmen was supposed to find him alone. She was at a sweet and mellow mood. 'Dancabe, you did not go with the others?'"

He looked imploringly into her eyes. "You didn't take anyone to them for their job?"

She unsaddled the horse, shaking her head and smiling to herself as though remembering something funny. "No, I didn't," she said.

She went to the fire and flipped the roast fowl to the ashes, with in reach of her hand. She did not look at Jose but she felt his brooding stare. "Don't you want some supper? Aren't you hungry?" she asked.

"No."

She reached for the scorched bird gingerly. She tore a leg from it, blowing on her fingers. "I'm always hungry." She sat on a rock near the fire, tentatively touching the hot fowl with the tip of her tongue, looking up at him over the edge of it. "You never are."

Jose spoke with all the despair of a lost soul. "What is the matter with me, Carmen? Why don't I go away from here? It is driving me mad to be near you, knowing you are married to another man."

Carmen took a bite of the fowl. She answered him absently. "I wouldn't be married to another man if you had used your head yesterday." She licked her fingers. "Would I?"

(To Be Continued)

SAENGER

BEYOND GLORY
STARTS SUNDAY

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Gov. Earl Warren of California respectively and declared:

"The Republican party today is unified, determined, confident and enthusiastic. The situation has never been more promising for a Republican victory."

He outlined a program which he said "the Republican party is unanimously united to carry out. The points he listed include:

- A reduction in government spending; continuation of the farm program of the 80th Congress
- Elimination of "periodical depressions" and the assurance of "no special privileges for any class."

More than 172,000 forest fires occur annually.

Only Dolores BRASSIERES

UNDERLINE YOUR FASHION CORRECT SILHOUETTE WITH Nature-Lift

Perfectly poised, completely assured of looking your loveliest, always. That's the new feeling made possible by Dolores' revolutionary, patented design "Nature-Lift." A superb fit with complete physical freedom. No pads... no artifice... just naturally lovelier. Let Dolores' emphasize your ideal line of loveliness today—you'll agree they truly do something for you. In a complete selection of styles, fabrics, sizes.

ACCENT YOUR FEMININITY WITH Dolores' "Nature-Lift"

Dolores' patented design of vertical stitching on a diagonal cup line gives a superb fit never before experienced in brassieres. The diagonal seam provides complete physical relaxation while the vertical stitching accents your ideal line of loveliness.

COTTON Pink and White	$2.00
RAYON SATIN Pink and Black	$3.50

as seen in VOGUE

new hue
new you

For your fashion changeover this Fall, select our

MOJUD STOCKINGS

in Fashion Harmony Colors. Here are nylon stockings exquisitely molded...in exciting new colors to complement all your new clothes.

Whether you like them sheer, sheerer, or sheerest, you'll look lovely right down to your toes in our famous Mojuds.

1.50 to 1.95

Lewis-McLarty, Inc.

Formerly TALBOT'S

GABARDINE

Super-Fine and Fashion-Wise 10.98

Gabardine (Rayon & Wool) is the best tonic for an ailing wardrobe, as prescribed by Gay Gibson. This one buttons straight from the left shoulder and on the right pocket. Comes in the smartest shades of the season... beige and grey. Junior sizes 9 to 17.

We Give and Redeem Eagle Stamps
GEO. W. ROBISON & CO.
"The Leading Department Store"
HOPE NASHVILLE

Gay Gibson Juniors

At the mountain camp, Don Jose sat alone by the fire. A foxglove of the soft and he turned away, "I have a little place in the middle of town that is a better place for fortune telling."

He looked up at the sound of a horse's feet, and rose slowly as Carmen came into the light of the fire and announced,

"Carmen was supposed to find him alone. She was at a sweet and mellow mood. 'Dancabe, you did not go with the others?'"

He looked imploringly into her eyes. "You didn't take anyone to them for their job?"

She unsaddled the horse, shaking her head and smiling to herself as though remembering something funny. "No, I didn't," she said.

She went to the fire and flipped the roast fowl to the ashes, with in reach of her hand. She did not look at Jose but she felt his brooding stare. "Don't you want some supper? Aren't you hungry?" she asked.

"No."

She reached for the scorched bird gingerly. She tore a leg from it, blowing on her fingers. "I'm always hungry." She sat on a rock near the fire, tentatively touching the hot fowl with the tip of her tongue, looking up at him over the edge of it. "You never are."

Jose spoke with all the despair of a lost soul. "What is the matter with me, Carmen? Why don't I go away from here? It is driving me mad to be near you, knowing you are married to another man."

Carmen took a bite of the fowl. She answered him absently. "I wouldn't be married to another man if you had used your head yesterday." She licked her fingers. "Would I?"

(To Be Continued)

CLASSIFIED

Ads Must Be In Office Day Before Publication

Number of Words	One Day	Three Days	One Month
Up to 15	50c	1.25	4.00
16 to 25	60c	1.50	4.50
26 to 35	75c	2.00	6.00
36 to 45	1.00	2.50	7.50
46 to 55	1.25	3.00	9.00
56 to 65	1.50	3.50	10.50
66 to 75	1.75	4.00	12.00
76 to 85	2.00	4.50	13.50
86 to 95	2.25	5.00	15.00

Rates are for continuous advertising only.
 • All Want Ads Cash in Advance
 • Not Taken Over the Phone

Notice

WE BUY, SELL AND REPAIR all makes of sewing machines. W. H. West, 215 North Hamilton Street, Phone 1226-W, Hope, Arkansas. 1-1mo

NEED EXTRA MONEY TO OFFER the high cost of living? Use your spare time to make extra money in high class work. In reply please give address and telephone number. Write Box A in care of Hope Star. 14-6t

For Sale

SEED OATS, RECLEANED AND tagged. Aubrey Enoch at McRae Implement Co. 21-1m

GOOD BOIS'D ARC POSTS AT reasonable prices. See E. M. McWilliams at McWilliams Seed Store, Hope, Arkansas. 9-1mo

LADIES BLACK COAT, SIZE 44, boys top coat, size 10. Both in good condition. Phone 534-W after 4 p.m. 10-3t

CONCERT GRAND PIANO, phone 932-J after 6 p.m. Can be seen by appointment. 10-3t

PANSY PLANTS. PREPARE your ground now, set plants after November 1. Get them at Monis Seed Store. 10-3t

TURKEYS, CORN FED, SIX months old November 10, 12 to 35 pounds. Phone 18 or 898-W, Dr. Alexander. 10-3t

HOT POINT ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR, Phone 466-R, in A-1 condition. 10-3t

MY HOME AT 1215 SOUTH MAIN street, new and modern throughout. See John H. Capitol Barber Shop or call 657-7. 10-3t

NEW HOUSE, JUST COMPLETED. 5 rooms and bath, front and back porches, garage, 75 ft. front, located at 18th and Elm in front of High School. See A. A. Catapbell. 10-3t

Services Offered

EXPERIENCED PRACTICAL NURSE, References offered. Phone 440-W. 10-3t

NAMED MODERATOR Little Rock, Oct. 20 —(AP)—Dr. C. D. Wardlaw, pastor of the Central church here, has been elected moderator of the Arkansas Synod Presbyterian Church, U. S., at the 97th annual meeting here. The meeting will close today.

Call 129 or 806 (nights) House Wiring, Repairs or anything Electrical. See us first. Allen Electric Co. Next Door to Saenger Theatre Phone 129 or 806

WE HAVE.... Seed Oats, Austrian Winter Peas, Winter Hairy Vetch, Winter Rye Grass, Seed Rye, Wheat, Barley and Joe Youmans Flower Bulbs. We Honor AAA Orders

MONTS SEED STORE Hope, Arkansas

REFRIGERATION SERVICE is our business. Prompt and efficient service on all makes of refrigeration and air conditioning systems. We go anywhere anytime.

BREWSTER REFRIGERATION SERVICE Phone 1200 or 1231-J Nights and Sundays 119 Edgewood Hope

Notice to Sweet Potato Growers Dig your potatoes now before it rains and ruins the quality. Until further notice we offer you $30.00 per ton for No. 1 Portorican and Red velvet which is $1.50 per Bu. of 90 lbs. We furnish the crates and want you to get them in grade your number ones in the field and put them in crates as you pick them up. Potatoes that are put in storage must be handled without bruising. We pay $2.00 per ton for culls and rough stuff and don't care how you bring them in but be sure and get crates for Number ones and dig them now as the prices may be lower after it rains.

E. M. McWilliams Seed Store Hope, Ark.

REMOVED FREE Within 40 Miles DEAD HORSES, COWS and CRIPPLES Texarkana Rendering Plant Dial 3-7523 (phone collect) If No Answer Dial 3-5770

Let Us Rebuild Your Old MATTRESS or make your old one into a comfortable innerspring. One Day Service "All Work Guaranteed"

DAVIS Furniture & Mattress Co. 606 N. Hazel Phone 357

Male Help Wanted EXPERIENCED HIGHWAY DESIGNERS—Bridge Designers, Draftsmen, Computers, Teachers, for highway design projects. Northeastern U. S. Can advance some C. E. graduates with limited experience. Write for application to Michael Baker Jr., Inc., Box 1429, Jackson, Miss. 13-1t

For Rent

2-3 ROOM UNFURNISHED apartments, near 3rd School. Store, Phone 36-F-11. Mrs. J. L. Schooley. 11-4t

TWO ROOM FURNISHED APARTMENT, 302 South Washington. Electric refrigerator, private entrance. Utilities paid. 19-2t

TWO UNFURNISHED ROOMS. Bills paid, $25 per month. Telephone 1261-W. 19-2t

TWO UNFURNISHED ROOMS. Private entrance. Convenient to bath. Bills paid. 423 South Hervey. 20-2t

LARGE PASTURE FOR LIVESTOCK. Plenty of water. Located on Silas Sanford farm, E. A. Pickering, Hope, Route 4. 20-2t

Lost

NAVY FIELD JACKET, LOST OR taken by mistake. By Danes Saturday night. Return to George Stroud, 609 N. Elm. Phone 339-3. 19-3t

BLOND COCKER SPANIEL, female about 18 months old. Last seen in Ward 2. If found notify E. R. Brown, phone 445-W. 19-3t

Top Women Golfers Entered in Fort Smith Meet Fort Smith, Oct. 20 —(AP)—Some of the nation's top women golfers began qualifying here today in hopes of a position in the championship flight of the Hardscrabble Country Club's women's open golf tournament.

First rounds of match play will start Thursday morning. Finals will be Sunday.

Setting the pace over the revamped 4,740 yard course in today's qualifying rounds was defending champion Mrs. George (Baby) Didrickson Zaharias, who won last year's medal play event with a score of 295 for 72 holes.

Entries battling for a share of the $1,000 prize money include Betty Berg, Minneapolis, runner up in the 1947 Hardscrabble tournament; Peggy Kirk, Findlay, O., and Mary Agnes Wall, Meadville, Mich. 19-3t

Amateurs include Mrs. Gordon Perry, El Dorado, Ark.; Betty McKenna, Pleasant, Tex.; and Mrs. Carl Robinson and Miss Ed Dell Wortz, both of Fort Smith.

A cubic mile of warm or hot air may hold as much as 40,000 tons of potential rain, snow or hail.

Legal Notice ORDINANCE NO. 629 AN ORDINANCE REQUIRING CERTAIN VEHICLES TO PARK PARALLEL WITH THE CURB IN THE CITY OF HOPE

Be it ordained by the City Council of Hope, Arkansas:

Section 1. All trucks in excess of one-half ton capacity shall hereafter park parallel with the curb and only in places where parallel parking is permitted, the same being the purpose of this ordinance to prohibit undue parking by such types of vehicles. This ordinance shall not apply to trucks stopping for the purpose of loading or unloading materials or merchandise.

Section 2. The Chief of Police shall post such signs as he deems necessary to reasonably inform the public of this ordinance.

Section 3. Any person violating this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $1.00 nor more than $10.00.

Passed and approved this 19th day of October, 1948.

Published in the Hope Star this 20th day of October, 1948.

Lyle Brown Mayor

Attest: Mrs. Chas. F. Revneron City Clerk

FLOOR Sanding and Finishing LINOLEUM Asphalt Tile • Rubber Tile

ROY ALLISON Phone 280

LET FOY DO IT • Level yards • Dig Post Holes • Plov Gardens • Cut Vacant Lots • Also custom work.

HAMMONS TRACTOR CO. Phone 1066 3 S. Walnut St.

REMOVED FREE Within 40 Miles DEAD HORSES, COWS and CRIPPLES Texarkana Rendering Plant Dial 3-7523 (phone collect) If No Answer Dial 3-5770

Let Us Rebuild Your Old MATTRESS or make your old one into a comfortable innerspring. One Day Service "All Work Guaranteed"

DAVIS Furniture & Mattress Co. 606 N. Hazel Phone 357

Louis Definitely Will Fight Next June

New York, Oct. 20 —(AP)—Joe Louis definitely will fight next June at the Yankee Stadium against one of three opponents — Lee Savold, Edward J. Brannan or Joe Bakst. The champ said a decision was being given up his four-month "retirement." Louis made his speech after a morning conference with Mike Twardowski and Harry Markson, the new managing director of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler Copyright, 1947 By King Features Syndicate.

New York, Oct. 19 — The citizen cannot realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

They included one who actually had been convicted of stealing the copper off the eyes of his departed subject, being the "dodgers" and "orphan" benefit funds, but had been reinstated as national treasurer as soon as Al Smith let him out of Sing Sing. It might seem strange that Green could not realize how vicious the union racket is in its massive enormity unless he learns first how bad it is. Details. William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and other ancient political leaders, believe the rights of labor and the "menace to freedom" of the "Taff-Hartley law," but they always refuse to discuss the corruption and the political badness of the individual unions which pay their tainted salaries. Years ago, Green made the mistake of accusing me of the corruption of the union's tributary unions. I rubbed his nose in it, and he took a hard line in sending to prison about 20 of his most powerful and predatory fellow-servants of the faceless fellow-infantries in the Labor day parades and in the Labor day jail-birds.

By Chick Young

By Galbraith

HORIZONTAL	VERTICAL
14 Pictured U.S.	1 Injure
Department of	2 Average (ab.)
Agriculture	3 Affirmative
executive	4 Fertilizer
10 She advises	5 Burden
how to — in	6 Not one
food buying	7 Equip
11 Oils	8 Atop
13 Tree	9 Storehouses
14 Threaded	10 Frozen banks
16 Consumed	12 Be sparing
18 Peruse	13 Sea eagles
20 Otherwise	15 Tellurium
21 Sacred bull	(symbol)
22 Ethiopian	17 Essential being
23 Portents	19 Visionary
25 Metal
26 Refuge
27 Three-toed
sloth
28 Nickel
(symbol)
29 Poplar
32 Gives out
36 Is carried
37 Architectural type
2 A Hoga
38 Pulpit-like desk
39 Girl's name
40 Isaac
36 Respiratory
(comb. form)
37 Frost
38 Sting
40 Indistinctly
2 horses
35 Color

Answer to Previous Puzzle

VIC FLINT

WASH TUBBS

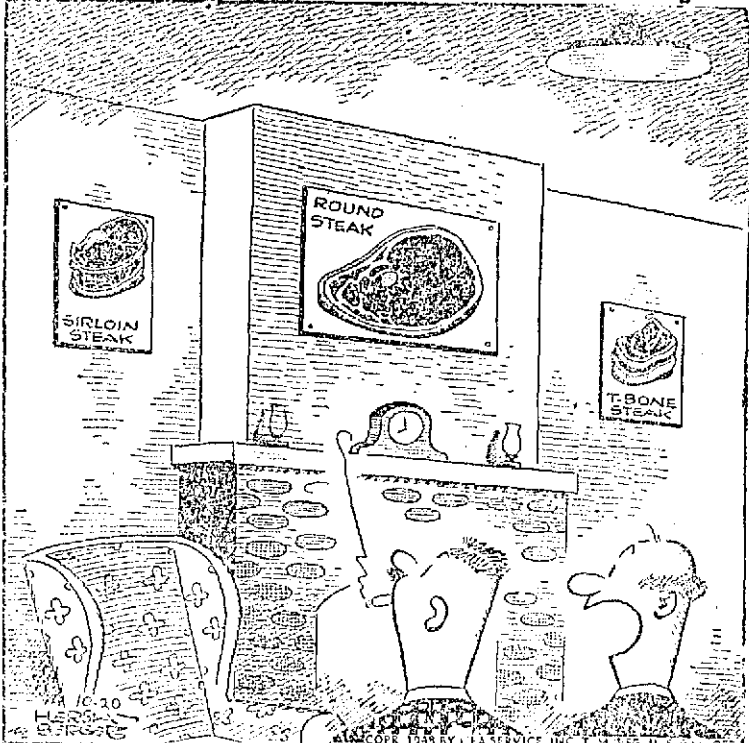

"Your bus is so big you think you can go around sideswiping any car you like—you saw what happened to Hitler!"

By Dick Turner

By Hershberger

"We couldn't afford to eat them so we mounted them!"

"Boy! I can just see the expressions on my heirs' faces!"
FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS By BLOOMER

By Blosser

OUT OUR WAY

By J. R. Williams

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

With Major Hooper

BOOTS

POPEYE

Thimble Theater

STARTS FRIDAY MORNING OCTOBER 22 WEST BROS.

Style Right! New!

Ladies' Fall

DRESSES

5.95

Adorable tailored or dressy styles for every daytime occasion.

7.95

10.95

Black Satins
Crepes Novelty
Printed Silks Weaves

Dresses that will make you want the new season to begin tomorrow!

Guaranteed Fast Color

WASH DRESSES

These are regular 2.98 values. Beautiful new fall colors and patterns in this group. Sizes 12 to 44

2.09

For School!

For Sports!

For Business!

Blouses

Made of silk, Chiffon or sharkskin. Choice of pretty whites or dainty colors. Tailored or fussy styles. Yes, just the colors and styles that will add "dash" to your Fall suits... or complete your costume when you wear a separate skirt or slacks. All sizes in a smart new style.

2.98

Tailored or Lace Trim

and

Whites or Pastels with Long
or Short Sleeves

3.95

New Lower Prices on Ladies'

Nylon Hosiery

45-Gauge, Now .... 1.19

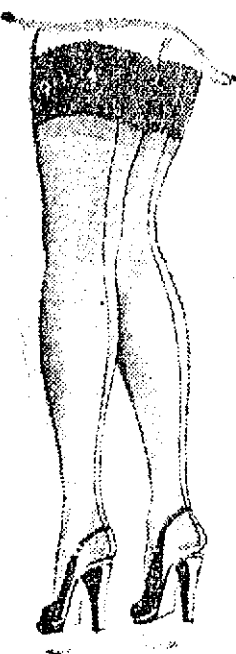

51-Gauge, Now .... 1.49

All First Quality — New Fall Shades

Ladies' and Children's Anklets

New Fall and Winter Colors and Patterns
A complete range of sizes for every boy and girl... and sizes too for misses and young women. Short or long lengths. Choice of two grades. Sizes 4 to 10½.

25c and 39c

Outing Flannel

Ladies Floral and Striped

Nightwear

Outing Gowns 1.98 &amp; 2.98

Ladies' Outing PAJAMAS .... 2.98

Children's Outing GOWNS ..... 1.98

Cannon

TOWELS

22x44 Cannon Towels . 59c
Wash Cloths . 10c and 15c

20x40 Turkish Towels. Plaid, Flowered and Pastel Colors . 49c

OCTOBER HARVEST EVENT

As the leaves begin to take on their tinge of gold... you begin to think of Fall... colder days! So do we, and this is our inspiration to offer you the things you need at prices as low as current markets will permit. Just bear in mind that our buying power makes possible lower prices at West's!

81 x 99

SHEETS

2.49

These are type 128 sheets and are real value buys at this low price. Buy a supply now. Only

27 x 27 inch

DIAPERS

1.88

Another sensational value. Fine Birdseye diapers in large 27x27 inch size. Get your needs now and save money. Reg. 2.69 value

Men's Winter Weight

UNIONSUITS

1.29

Heavy, long sleeve, ankle length styles. Good durable ribbed quality in sizes 36 to 46. Buy now. Regular 1.79 grade.

BOYS SHIRTS

1.09

Mannish styles, guaranteed fast colors to make you neat looking. Extra good quality materials. Sizes 6 years to 14½.

Regular 6.95

CHENILLE SPREADS

4.88

Extra large, double bed size... Beautiful multi-colored patterns. Buy now only

Men's Type 4 Army

TWILL PANTS

2.59

These are regular 3.49 values. Sizes 29 to 42 Extra quality, extra tailoring and extra durable.

36 inch

BLEACHING

27c

This is a regular 39c grade, and if you are going to need bleaching buy now. Fine soft finished quality. Yard

72 x 90 inch

COTTON BATTS

59c

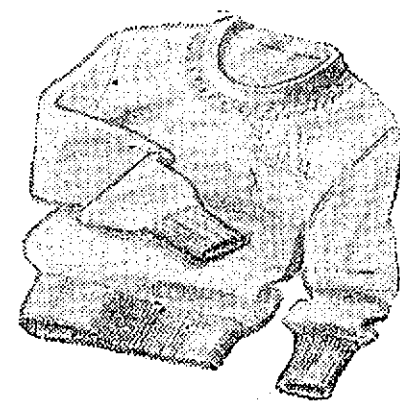

These are 2½ pound rolls. Carded into one full 72x90 inch layer. Ready to use. Each only

MEN'S AND BOYS'

SWEAT SHIRTS

We have them, men and young men, in just the types and kinds you'll want for work, school or play wear. Solid colors or novelty patterns in all sizes. Get your share now.

1.39

MEN'S TROUSERS

• For Your Fall and Winter Wear

Yes, they are here in a grand collection of styles, colors and patterns for men and young men in those popular pleated or plain fronts. You'll like the new quality, the new fabrics. They'll give you service.

4.95

6.95

7.95

BOYS CORDUROY OVERALLS

Mothers here are the overalls you want for the little fellows. Sizes 1 to 6½ years in all popular fall colors.

1.39

BOY'S TROUSERS

2.98, 4.95 and 5.95

MEN'S DRESS SHIRTS

Broadcloths, Madras, Shirtings and Other Finer Fabrics are used in making Your Dress Shirts This Year

1.98

and

2.98

Fast color patterns and whites. All full cut and perfectly tailored. They are priced here at Only

WORK CLOTHES

Men's LEATHER WORK GLOVES 98c to 1.29

Men's ARMY CLOTH PANTS 3.49 and 4.49

Men's ARMY CLOTH SHIRTS... 3.45 4.45

Men's BLUE OVERALLS .... 2.49 2.98

Men's 8-oz. BLUE JEANS ..... 2.49

Boy's ARMY CLOTH PANTS ..... 2.89

Boy's BLUE JEANS ..... 1.79 and 1.98

Boy's OVERALLS ..... 1.98

Children's STRIPED COVERALLS ..... 1.98

WEST BROS.

Old McRae Hdwe. Bldg.

Hope, Ark.

Second and Main

"HOME OF GOOD VALUES"